MACHINE DRILL MEN TRAINING FOR BIG EVENT

Chairman Harry Grier of the executive committee on arrangements in connection with the Independence Day celebration is swamped with inquiries regarding the conditions that are to govern the water jackhammer drilling contest which is to net the winner a tidy sum. The second, third, and fourth men are also to receive a good slice of the $1000 purse.

The rules and specifications have already been published in the newspapers and anyone who is not yet familiar with the rules can secure a copy of same by calling on Chairman Grier. Entries for this drilling classic close July 1st and an entrance fee of $10 per man is required from those who would bid for a chunk of the big prize money.

Charley Wittenberg has a force of men at work jacking up the big granite block and it is being done with all haste conforming with "safety first" laws. The next few days will see the rock hoisted on the big platform that is to hold the contestants, referees, judges, coaches and representatives from the machine people.

The mucking contest is also coming in for its share of interest and already bets are being freely talked among the different mine crews. An entrance fee of $2.50 per man is required for those desiring to participate in the mucking championship.

Eddie Ketchell has received word from Cleveland, Ohio, that if he decisively beats Harry Bramer on July 4th he will be given consideration by feather "wait" champion Johnny Kilbane. Very likely the champion will wait some more before granting either of the two boxers a chance at his title.

TYPHUS SPREAD BY MIGRATION

(Correspondence Associated Press) BELGRADE, Serbia, May 16.—The great migration of refugees and soldiers through Serbia continues. And all of them aid in spreading typhus. Returning Czech-Slovak, Serbian, Greek, Montenegrin, Albanian, Bosnian and Rumanian prisoners from the central empire pass through Belgrade.

From the south pass Bulgarian prisoners returning to their homes. Turks migrating back to Macedonia and Turkey in Asia. Serb civilians from the formerly occupied northern region of Serbia. Czech-Slovak soldiers going north, with the army of occupation, refugees, prisoners and soldiers of all the nations mingle on the one big north-south highway of Serbia.

Out of Bulgaria come half-starved Greek, Serbian, Albanian, Montenegrin and Bosnian soldiers and civilians held in bondage there during the war. All of them are in rags. Their bones show through their flapping garments. None have had medical care nor seen soap in years. As a result they are "alive" with vermin, and carry with them the germs of typhus.

Sanitary officers of the American army and the Red Cross bar the route of these north-south streams of humanity and herd them into the "delousing" stations where they are bathed in lysol and barbered while their garments are steamed in disinfectant.

ANARCHY RULES IN OLD LISBON

(Correspondence Associated Press) LISBON, May 14.—Portugal, especially Lisbon, is in the throes of an insipient "social revolution." Since the first of May, when the working classes made a strong and peaceful demonstration of their force by an immense procession through the streets and in front of the noblest, various threatening events have occurred.

Unsatisfied with the victory day granted by the government, workers "downed tools" and two fires have destroyed two of the finest old edifices in Lisbon. The first fire occurred in the Postal Money Order department, which is attached to the Bourse, the government offices and the custom house, part of the magnificent arcaded buildings of the principal square of Lisbon, on the northern bank of the Tagus river.

The strike of the waterworks company's employees coincided with the fire which broke out in three places simultaneously. The water supply was cut off, so that the firemen were helpless, and when they tried to pump water from the Tagus their hose was cut.

Many arrests were made of persons suspected of being the authors of this act of sabotage. The incendiaries have not yet been discovered, and the government is continuing its investigations and making many arrests. The damage is enormous; a great number of money orders were burned.

On the following day, the prisoners of the ancient and historical Lincoire prison revolted. They smashed furniture and doors with parts of their iron bedsteads and after setting the prison afire with their mattresses they rushed out shouting "vivas" for the social revolution. The old building, which had been a royal palace, built in the thirteenth century, was soon in flames and part of it was burned. Some of its 30 inmates escaped, but troops were immediately detailed to cordon the neighboring streets and hundreds were caught and removed to the Monsanto fort and other prisons.

The minister of labor has resigned owing to divergencies of opinion with his colleagues as to the measures that have been taken to quell the agitation among the workers.

The strikes have paralyzed business. No electric cars have been running since May 1 and all the municipal workmen are on strike, so that street cleaning, burying the dead, and all other municipal work is being done by soldiers and volunteers. It is said that a general strike is being planned, but public opinion is so incensed at the fires that a reaction appears to be setting in, and several societies and associations have made public protests against such extremist acts.

DOUGHBOY HAS RIGHT SPIRIT

(Correspondence Associated Press) BREST, France, May 14.—A doughboy stepped into a Brest store last night and asked to see home harmonious. As the soldier picked up one, inspected it minutely, wiping the edge of it with his coat sleeve before putting it to his mouth, there staring at him, as if in letters of fire were the printed words: "Made in Germany."

"I thought 'Made in Germany' was 'pas bon' in France," he said to the storekeeper.

"Zat is so," interrupted the Frenchman suavely, "but we buy zem before ze war."

The doughboy threw the harmonica on the counter and sauntered out.

"That is the right spirit," said the correspondent, "one should not trade with the enemy before peace is signed."

"Right spirit, nothing," replied the doughboy, "this bird wanted four dollars for this harmonica which he admits he bought before the war. They were worth fifty cents then."

COUNTING BY MILLIONS

On the 15th day of December at 1:55 p. m. in the year 1915, the Ford Motor Company cast the one millionth Ford Model T Motor, the famous power plant of the famous Ford car. It marked a great achievement when 1,000,000 motors had been cast consecutively, without a hair's breadth of change from the original design.

On April 8th, at 1:30 p. m. in the year 1919, the Ford Motor Company cast the three millionth Model T Motor, and it was identical the same in every detail, without a change of a hair's breadth in any particular, as the first Ford Model T Motor that was cast. 3,000,000 of one piece of mechanism cast, one after the other, without a change, is certainly about as strong evidence of perfection as it would be possible to conceive. Already now more than 3,000,000 Ford cars in daily service, and more than 3,000,000 alone carrying this famous Model T power plant.

A further pressing fact is that there has not been a day in the past three years when the Ford Motor Company has not been more than 100,000 cars behind orders for immediate delivery, and the output at the present time is in excess of 3,000 cars per day.
